The "Year of the Seafarer" is an excellent opportunity to reassure those who labour at the "sharp end" of the industry – the seafarers themselves – that those of us who work in other areas of the maritime community, and yet whose actions have a direct bearing on seafarers’ everyday lives, understand the extreme pressures they face and approach our tasks with genuine interest and concern for them and their families.

You are invited to attend the annual World Maritime Day Seminar, at which you will hear a presentation of the World Maritime Day message from Secretary-General of the International Maritime Organization, as well as the following distinguished speakers:

MS TERESA HATCH – Australian Shipowners Association
CAPTAIN JOHN LLOYD – Australian Maritime College
PROFESSOR NICK GASKELL – University of Queensland
COMMANDER IAN CAMPBELL – Royal Australian Navy
MR DEAN SUMMERS – International Transport Federation
MS JUDITH GARNAUT – Australian Maritime Safety Authority
